

UNVEILING TRENDS IN BOTTOM WEAR DISCOVERY AND PURCHASE BEHAVIOR

Background & Objective:

- Client Company is aiming to understand the GenZ/millennial customer behavior in discovering/ purchasing bottom wear apparel/fashion and wants to run a survey covering the below aspects
- To understand this, a survey is run via Client Company Pulse, among the following target group:
 - Genders: 75% women, 25% men; both in the age band of 17-25Y of age (Genz/millennials only)
 - Residing in top 10 cities in India
 - People who have been using Client Company app for at least 1Y and have ordered at least 2 samples from the platform over the past 12 months
 - People who have sampled at least 5 personal care products in the last 12 months with full pack ASPs of Rs 800 and above
 - People who have purchased full basket ecom products on Client Company for at least Rs 1K+ in the last 12 months

Executive Summary:

- Purchase Patterns & Frequency: Respondents primarily buy apparel on a monthly basis or as needed, with bottom wear purchased less frequently, typically once or twice a year. Many respondents own an 8 or 12 bottom wear pieces, indicating balanced purchase behavior and wardrobe sizes.
- Spending Behavior: Respondents tend to spend within specific price comfort zones for bottom wear, with a preference for affordable options. The majority buy within Price range of ₹1k or 8-10 new clothes annually, with a focus on price range between ₹800-1k, although male respondents make larger investments in fashion each year.
- Bottom Wear Selection: Comfort and versatility are key factors when selecting bottom wear, reflecting a practical approach to fashion.
- Digital Influence on Fashion Discovery: Social media plays a major role in discovering fashion trends, especially for bottom wear, driving respondents purchasing decisions. Digital platforms are crucial in shaping fashion choices and keeping consumers updated on the latest styles.
- Influencer & Celebrity Impact: Celebrity and influencer endorsements moderately influence consumer purchases, with Bollywood celebrities driving significant brand awareness and purchase decisions across different demographics
- Brand Preferences: Well-established brands dominate consumer awareness, with newer brands gaining traction through influencer marketing and digital engagement. Client Company X brand has a good awareness to search ratio compared to traditional brands.

- Client Company X Discovery and Purchase: Client Company X is largely discovered through influencer campaigns and denims/ jeans is one of highest purchase from Client Company X recently by respondents

Study Findings:

Purchase Behaviour and Frequency in Apparel/Fashion

- Purchase Frequency – Apparel/ Fashion:
 - 32% of respondents buy on a need basis with no specific plan, while 31% of respondents purchase fashion/apparel once a month.
 - 35% of females buy apparel on a need basis, indicating more impulsive buying behavior compared to 20% of males.
 - 43% of males purchase fashion monthly, significantly higher than 26% of females, indicating that males tend to make more frequent, regular fashion purchases compared to females.

Bottom Wear: Preferences & Usage

- Bottom Wear Collection:
 - 26% of respondents recall owning 8 pieces of bottom wear, while 21% of respondents own 12 pieces
 - Males are more likely to own 8 pieces (33%), while females are more likely to own 12 pieces (23%) indicating that females tend to have a larger collection of bottom wear compared to males.
 - 23% of respondents don't recall the exact number of bottom wear pieces, with 26% of females and 14% of males. This could be due to women's tendency to purchase bottoms based on immediate needs, leading to more spontaneous buying decisions.
- Purchase Frequency & Spending on bottom wear:
 - 42% of respondents buy bottom wear once or twice a year online, while 34% of respondents purchase it more than 2-3 times a year online.
 - 36% of respondents typically spend around Rs ₹ 1K per piece on bottom wear, while 34% always hunt for cheap options with a max limit of ₹ 1K.
 - 36% of females prefer cheap option with limit of ₹1k, compared to males (29%), indicating a stronger focus on affordability among females.
 - Nearly half (49%) of respondents buy 8-10 new clothes annually, with a price range of ₹800-1K per item.
 - A significantly higher proportion of males (45%) spend around ₹12K annually, compared to females (17%). Most females (53%) prefer buying 8-10 clothes annually within the ₹800-1K range, indicating that males tend to invest more in fashion annually
- Purchase Frequency – Denim/ Jeans:
 - 41% of respondents usually purchase denim/jeans when buying bottom wear.

- 34% respondents purchasing denim/jeans new 1-2 times a year. This indicates that denim is a regularly considered choice for bottom wear but purchased occasionally.
- Frequency of wearing Denim/Fashionable Bottom Wear:
 - 26% of respondents wear Denim/ Bottom wear daily, while 31% of respondents wear it 2-3 times per week, highlighting that denim/bottom wear is a staple in many respondents' wardrobes.
 - Respondents prioritize comfort (46%) and versatility (46%), while buying any bottom wear.
 - Females (48%) show a stronger inclination (compared to male 39%) toward choosing versatile pieces that pair well with multiple tops, highlighting a practical approach to styling.

Influence of Digital Media on Fashion Discovery and Engagement

- Role of Social Media in Fashion Discovery:
 - 41% of respondents rely on social media to find out what is trending in bottom wear, highlighting the importance of digital platforms in influencing purchase decisions.
 - Social media influence is particularly strong among females, with 44% relying on it, compared to 31% of males.
 - 20% of male respondents typically discover new/trending bottom wear styles through primarily those sported by influencers and celebrities, compared to only 9% of female respondents.
- Fashion Influencers Followed & Purchase made by Endorsements:
 - 43% of respondents have purchased brands endorsed by influencers or celebrities
 - Among female respondents, Bollywood actresses and influencers like Alia Bhatt (9%), Deepika Padukone (7%), and Shraddha Kapoor (7%) are the top choices, while male respondents show a stronger preference for male celebrities, with Salman Khan (18%) and Shah Rukh Khan (11%) leading the list.
 - Respondents generally follow more Bollywood celebrities than to social media influencers for fashion/ apparel style and choices.
- Time Spent on Fashion Content:
 - 35% of respondents spend 1 hour daily on fashion content, while 31% engage whenever they have time during weekdays, indicating a mix of dedicated and casual fashion content consumption.
 - Females being more engaged spending 1 hour daily (38%) than males (24%). This suggests that females show a stronger interest in consuming fashion content.
 - Conversely, males are more likely to spend less time (33% spend under 30 minutes) on fashion content, indicating a more casual or selective interest in fashion-related media

Brand Preferences & Market Dynamics

- Brand Awareness:
 - Established brands like H&M (83%) and Levi's (76%) have high awareness due to their traditional market presence and long-established reputation
 - Newer age brands like Client Company X (28%) and Souled Store (34%) have awareness levels between 20-35%, which is relatively low compared to well-established brands like H&M and Levi's. However, Souled Store shows higher awareness among males (43%), while Client Company X has more balanced awareness across genders (28% overall)
- Brand Search Preferences for Denim:
 - 57% of respondents typically search for H&M when buying denim, with 60% of females searching for this brand compared to 45% of males.
 - 56% of respondents search for Levi's, with 61% of males favoring this brand over 54% of females.
 - 18% of respondents searched for brand Client Company X, similar to new age brands like Souled store (17%) and Bonker's club (11%)
 - The conversion from awareness to search is good for Client Company X (64% conversion) compared to traditional brand H&M (69%) & Levi's (74%) and new age brands like Souled store (50%)
- Top Wear Brand Preferences:
 - Allen Solly (45%) and lesser-known/new brands (44%) are the most purchased top wear brands in the last 12 months, followed by Bewakoof (31%) and Newme (27%).
 - Males show a higher preference for Allen Solly (51%) and Snitch (41%), while females lean towards lesser-known/new brands (50%) and Allen Solly (42%).
- Client Company X Discovery and Purchase Behavior:
 - Among those who searched the brand, 44% of respondents first heard about Client Company X through influencer campaigns, with 58% of females reporting this compared to only 17% of males, indicating importance of influencer marketing in driving female engagement.
 - 22% of respondents discovered Client Company X via online marketplaces, with 42% of males finding the brand this way compared to only 13% of females, indicating males are more reliant on online marketplaces to discover the brand.
- Recent Purchase Behavior from Client Company X:
 - Among respondents who searched for the brand, 39% have purchased denim/jeans from Client Company X in the past year, while 36% are yet to make a purchase.